As soon as the sun goes down, begin to celebrate Halloween this year by walking among thousands of professionally carved pumpkins on display throughout Rhode Island's Roger Williams Park.

For the annual Jack-O-Lantern Spectacular, over 5,000 glowing pumpkins are hung in trees and on the ground along a quarter mile paved path. You would be hard-pressed to find any two alike and adding to the spooky scene is theatrical music playing in the background.

This is an event for the entire family. The path can accommodate strollers and wheelchairs but walkers would be difficult.

Note: Not recommended for those who have difficulty with low lighting.

There will be a fast food dinner stop (on own) before arriving at the park.
